

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased by 1.5 million (from 2.5 million in 1980 to 4 million in 1999). The public sector has become an important employer of people with mental health problems. The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000). The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000).

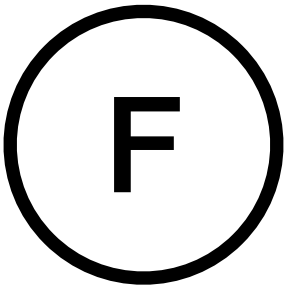

The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000). The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000).

The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000). The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000).

The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000). The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000).

The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000). The public sector has been the main employer of people with mental health problems in the UK since the 1960s. In 1999, the public sector employed 40% of people with mental health problems in the UK (Mental Health Foundation, 2000).

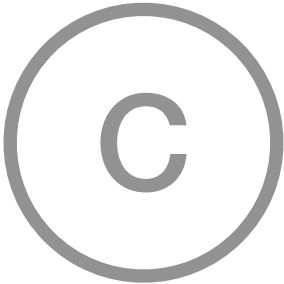

A

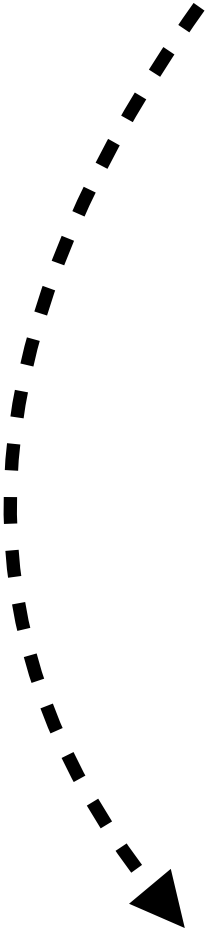

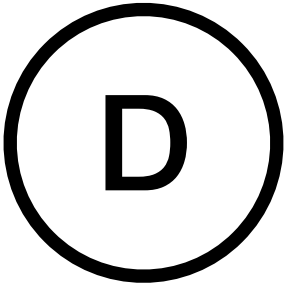

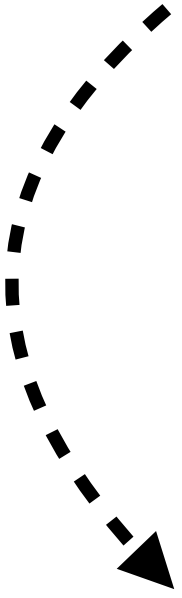

B

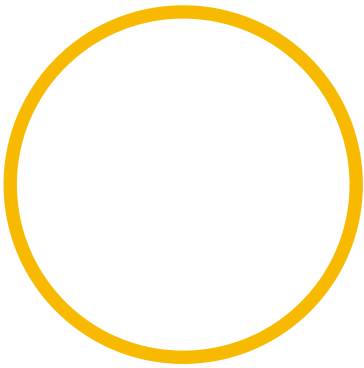

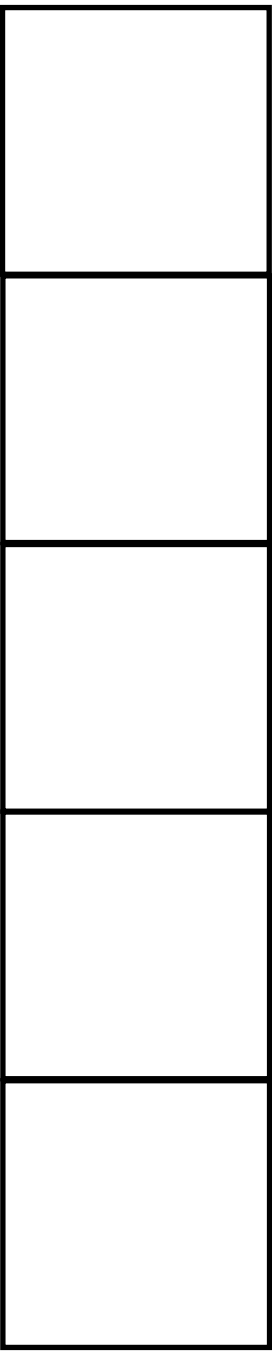

2

4

5

Single Threaded Analysis

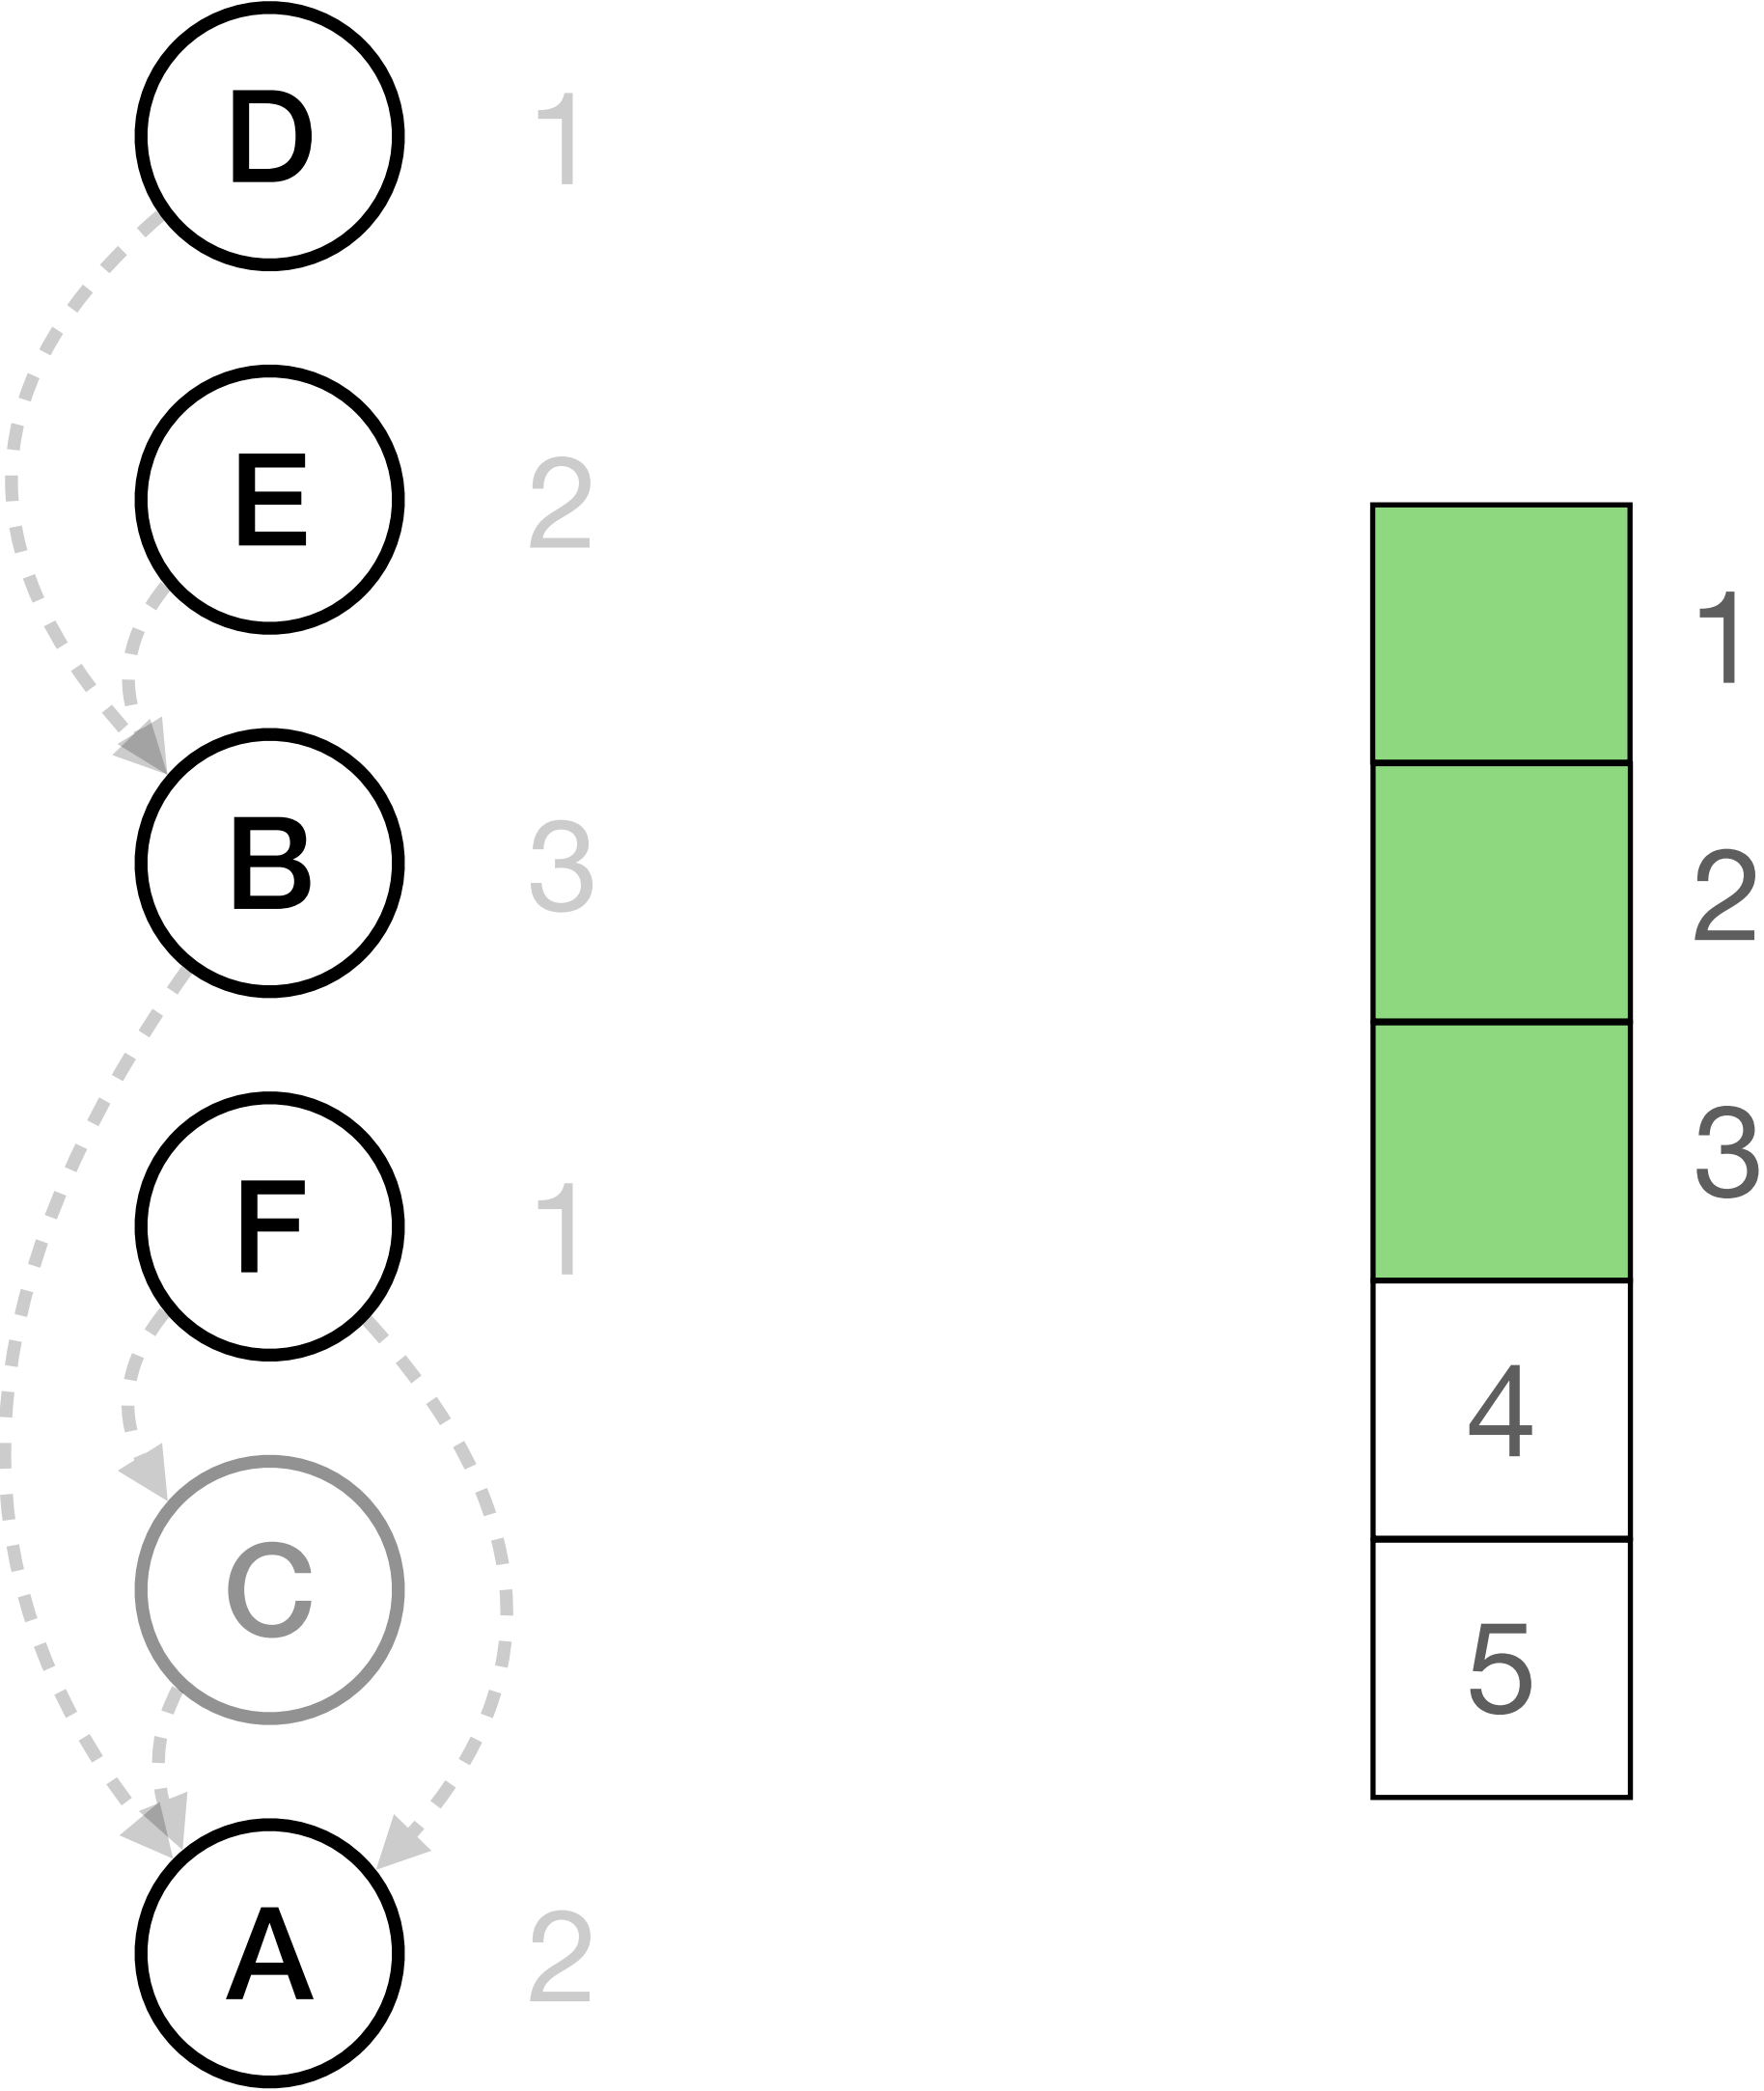

2

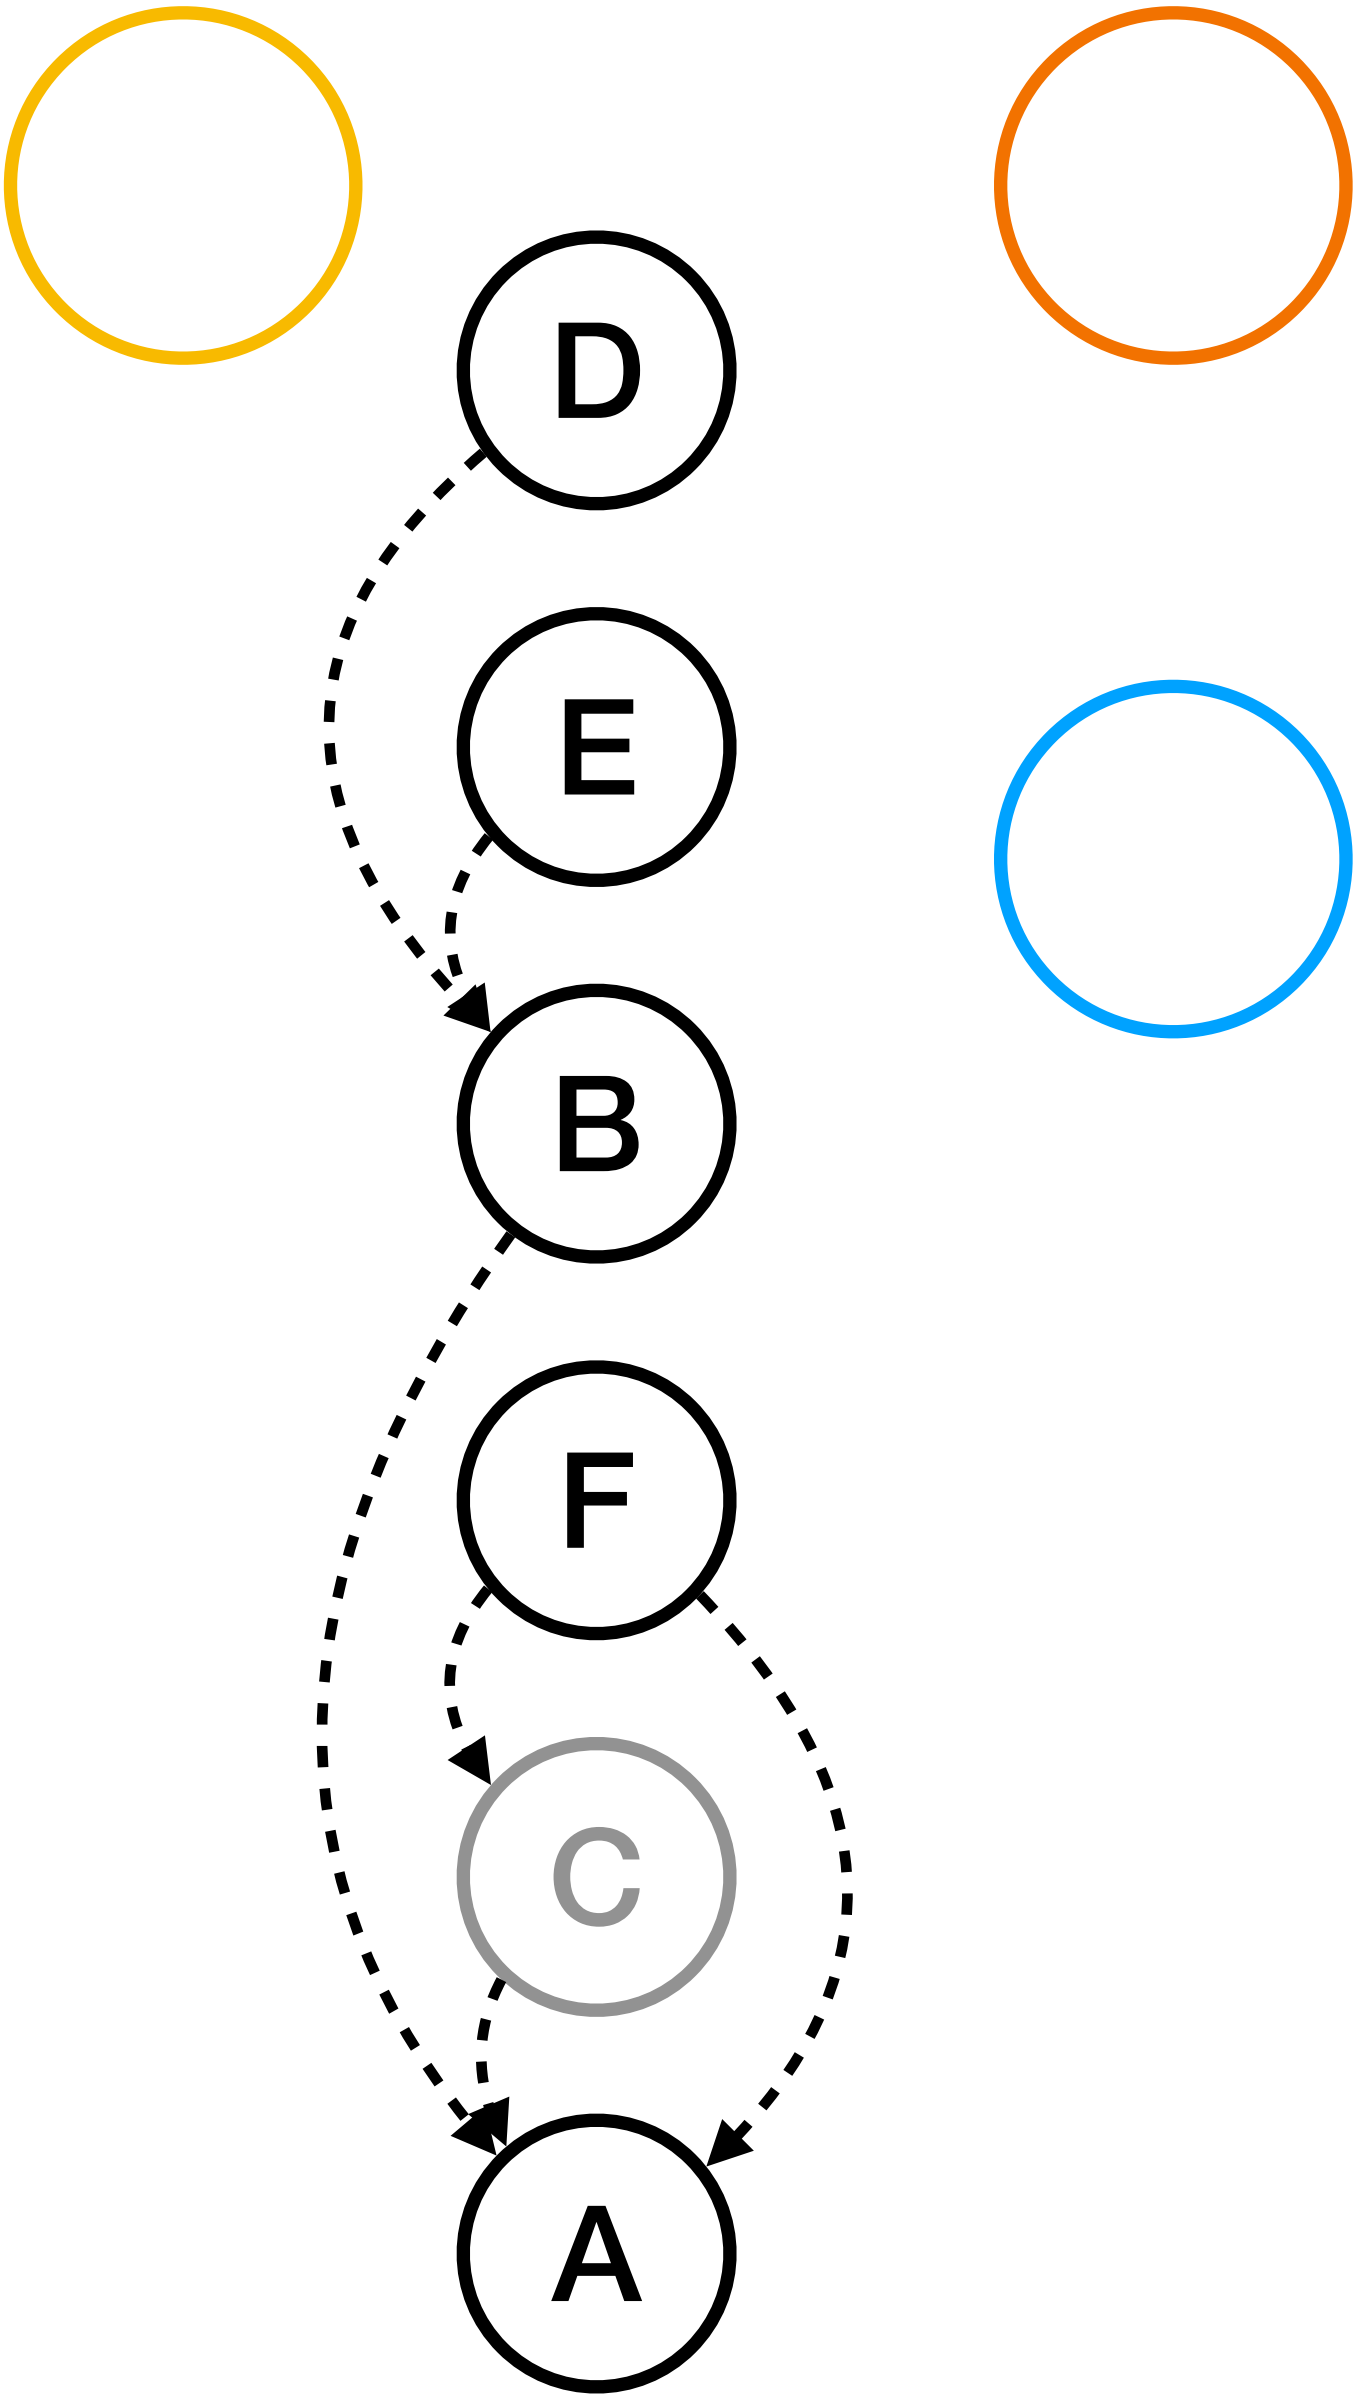

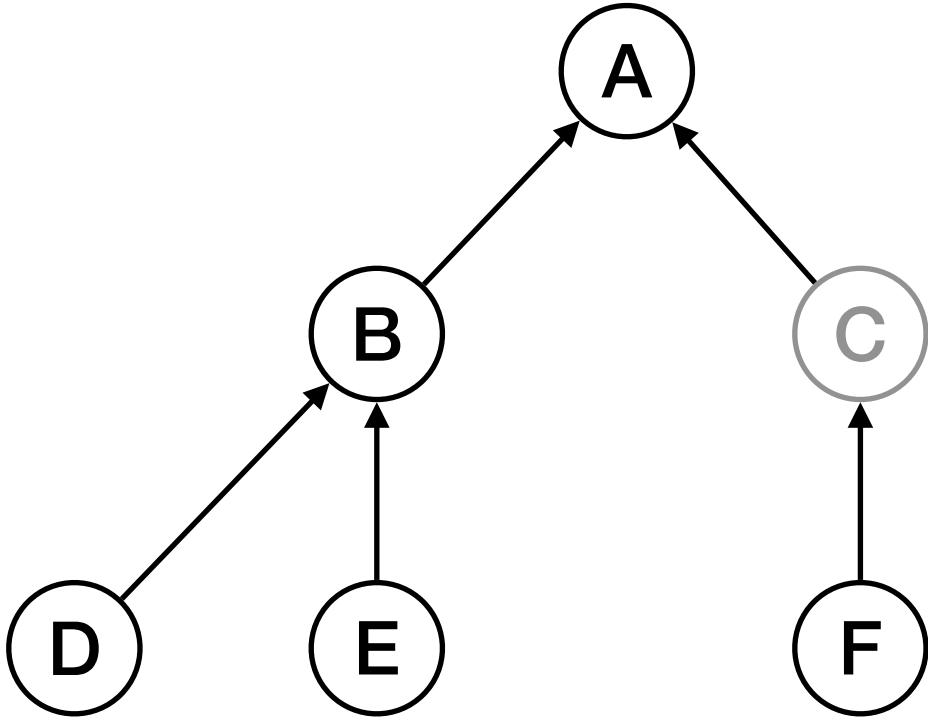

2

Single Threaded Analysis

Multi Threaded Pre-process Analysis

1
2
3
4
5